Eastern Region IRB Development Weekends

Purpose:

The purpose of these development weekends is to provide local IRB development opportunities aimed at those who are at introductory to intermediate level, and to further their knowledge, experience and skills.

To provide an opportunity for new/trainee IRB Drivers and Crewman to:

1. Gain further driving and crewing hours under experienced instruction
2. Improve their skills with the assistance of experience instructors and examiners
3. Complete their IRB Driver or Crewman theory test (time dependant)
4. Enhance local instructional skill bases

We will be sending two experienced instructor/examiners to assist the local instructors with these weekends to further enhance the skill and knowledge base locally.

Raglan Development weekends

The first Raglan Development weekend is scheduled for September 27th & 28th

This weekend will be very advanced and intensive, with a strong development and examination focus.

The format will remain the same as last year. However it is envisaged that the candidates will have attended one of the above weekends to further enhance their skills prior to jumping into the Raglan experience and assist with the examination focus.

- Cost: $95.00 (GST Inclusive)

A second examination weekend may be held if the demand high.
